Congress Measures Not Acceptable to Him
Benson Says Farm

WASHINGTON, April 7 (AP)—President Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Benson put their heads together on the new farm bill today and afterward Benson described the measure as "not acceptable to me." Whether Eisenhower would veto the bill if it reaches him in the form approved by a Senate-house conference committee was left up in the air, however, until some Senate and house have until finally.

The bill contains the soil bank system of payments to farmers, advocated by the administration, but also has major features opposed by Eisenhower and Benson. Notable among these is the 50-cent mandatory support for basic crops this year.

Senator Allen, R., Va., said efforts will be made in Congress next week to make the bill acceptable to the administration.

1. The first of these is the fact that the majority of the population of the United States is now living in urban areas. This is a result of the process of urbanization, which has been going on since the beginning of the 20th century. The population of the United States has increased from about 100 million in 1900 to over 200 million in 1950. At the same time, the population of rural areas has decreased from about 100 million in 1900 to about 50 million in 1950. This has led to a concentration of the population in urban areas, which has had a number of important consequences. One of the most important is that it has led to a change in the way of life of the majority of the population. In rural areas, the population has traditionally been engaged in agriculture, and the way of life has been based on the needs of the farm. In urban areas, the population has traditionally been engaged in industry and commerce, and the way of life has been based on the needs of the city. This has led to a number of differences between the two ways of life, including differences in the types of housing, the types of food, and the types of entertainment. Another important consequence of urbanization is that it has led to a change in the distribution of the population. In rural areas, the population is distributed over a large area, while in urban areas, the population is concentrated in a small area. This has led to a number of problems, including overcrowding, pollution, and traffic congestion. Finally, urbanization has led to a change in the types of jobs available. In rural areas, the jobs are primarily related to agriculture, while in urban areas, the jobs are primarily related to industry and commerce. This has led to a number of differences in the types of skills required for the two types of jobs, and has led to a number of problems, including unemployment and underemployment.

Solon Trying To Outlaw All Atom Missiles

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 7 (U. S. Press).—Senator Charles McNary, chairman of the joint congressional committee on atomic energy, yesterday announced that the United States and Russia stop work on intercontinental ballistic missiles.

He said that if this nuclear weapon proved as destructive as forecast, it would be outlawed as was poison gas by the Geneva Convention. He said that the United States and Russia put forth his idea in a speech at the sixth annual conference on high energy nuclear physics at the University of Rochester. The 200 scientists attending include three Russians.

The Democratic senator from New Mexico said development of "fantastic" missiles involved "fantastic" expenditures of money, materials and skills.

"If we will never use this weapon once we achieve it," he asked, "might it not be wiser to make as one agreement of worldwide competition that could be underserved to the world, to halt the race for the atom?"

Billboards to Advertise Northwest

Kenneth Montgomery, secretary-manager of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce, left, and Mrs. Rodney Tegan, office secretary, look over the miniature billboards which the state department of commerce is planning to place throughout the northwest. These two signs are designed for the Salmon River area.

Funds for Tourist Attraction Plan Estimated at 'Thousands'

Thousands of dollars will be spent in the next few years by the Idaho department of commerce for billboards to draw tourists to the state, according to Kenneth Montgomery, secretary-manager of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce.

Quoting from statistics released by the department, Montgomery said the department has estimated, through studies and surveys, 48 million dollars are spent in the state by tourists. This figure is arrived at by counting the number of out of state automobiles entering through the state, he said.

Using the AAA figure of an average of three persons to the car, and the census made during other surveys showing each tourist spends about eight dollars a day, the 48 million dollar figure is arrived at by assuming each spends only one day in the state, he said.

The purpose of the intra-state markers is to induce the tourists to make an additional two or three hour side trip into a scenic area in Idaho. Montgomery stated, if this is accomplished, those additional three hours would cause the tourists to stay over one more night. This would double the tourist expenditure, Montgomery said.

He also noted this is the "easiest money a state can get." There is no import of exports that must be had, and everyone profits.

Because the department is financially unable to support the entire program, agreements have been made with the major oil companies and other firms that have numerous billboards to allow free state advertising through the tourist season as a public service. In the meantime the companies would use them for advertising.

The trademark for the program is "Salmon River Film." Nothing there have been many people, who by not knowing the reason for the selection have declared the film.

T. F. Families Found Korean Scouts Courteous and Polite

Five Twin Falls families who housed Korean Boy Scouts during their stay last week found the boys "very courteous and polite," but given to some extraordinary customs, according to American standards.

The courteous Koreans displayed while in public carried into their homes but they never seemed to relax.

One of the trails they displayed was the prolonged use of bathing facilities. Each family learned to allow at least 45 minutes to their guests for bathing.

One of the "father parents," noted the lad staying with him seemed to be fascinated by the bathtub. As of buttermilk and left all but one towel.

When it seemed to be the highlight of their trip was the visit to Henry Jones' cattle ranch. Each one sat on a horse wearing an oversize Stetson and "fired their fingers" into the air with their mouths supplying the gun sound. They said they had seen many of our western movies.

The Koreans were amazed to see Americans burning up electricity during the day. They reported in Korea the family considered themselves fortunate to have electricity for an hour or two in the evening.

With all the festivities in honor of the nation's well attended both here and in Portland their major question seemed to be "Who works in America?"

Conducting all business inside a building also threw them off the track on this question as they were used to seeing street hawkers or vendors.

The Koreans not only had fine singing voices but enjoyed singing immediately. At the Roundhouse on Baldy mountain last Sunday when they were guests of Sun Valley, the visitors were applauded into giving several encores.

They thought it strange Americans did not "move" singing as it was rather a national pastime in Korea.

As they were quiet themselves, an undisturbed or enthusiasm seemed to trouble them Harris reported the air with their mouths supplying the gun sound.

School Meet Set

RUPERT, April 7.—A meeting to plan landscaping at the new Minidoka county high school will be held at 8 p. m. Monday at the high school.

Delegates from all civic, service and farm organizations are expected to attend the planning session. Any one interested is welcome.

Ketchum troop, which welcomed them to Sun Valley with a drum and bugle corps, was brimming with somewhat noisy enthusiasm. However, the laughing and horsing around resulted in an immediate quieting down.

This was the way all our boys acted," Harris said. "The American boys showed the Koreans they could be just as polite and courteous as anyone and we were extremely proud of their behavior all through the Korean visit."

Polio Vaccine Tests Results Are Watched

ARGENTINA, April 7 (AP)—The polio epidemic has taken 100 lives and crippled 2,000 here. It is the worst in the world, with the new danger of cooler weather and the increase effectiveness of public health measures.

Thanks Expressed
Argentina is expressing gratitude to the 20 countries that have poured in help to fight the epidemic, particularly to the United States, which donated $100,000, the services of all polio specialists and the use of the iron lungs used to save the lives of many victims.

But looking to next year, this country is particularly interested in the possibility of Dr. Jonas Salk's vaccine.

Vaccine Not Used
Although Argentina is second only to the United States in the incidence of polio, the vaccine has not been used here. Health Minister Francisco Sanguinetti has discussed prospects for use of the vaccine but no plans have been laid down.

Martinez reported that the government health institute had fallen into neglect under ousted dictator Juan Peron and it will have to be re-equipped before it will be of use in helping to produce the vaccine. No private drug companies in Argentina are known to be planning to produce the vaccine themselves.

Former U. S. Official Seeks Abolishing of Income Taxes

RICHMOND, Va., April 7 (AP)—"I don't believe in the government enacting laws into your pocket and taking money by force, by police state methods, but that's what it is doing every day under our tax system."

"Federal income taxes should be abolished."

Coming from almost anyone else, the words might be just another cry in the wilderness as millions of Americans face the April 15 income tax deadline.

In this case, the speaker was the man who directed federal tax collections for the first three years of the Eisenhower administration.

T. Coleman Andrews, former U. S. commissioner of internal revenue, said he is convinced, on the basis of his experience in Washington, that the whole 60-year-old federal system of personal income taxes should be wiped off the books.

He has no illusions about a tax-free Utopia, nor has he any wild idea of going back to the days before World War I when it took only a few million dollars—not billion—to run the government. The country has grown too big, he said, and times have changed. But he declared:

"America today is in the death grip of taxation. Taxes are too high from top to bottom. Much to high. How does Andrews square such strong feelings on the subject with the fact that he was U. S. tax commissioner?"

"My job was to enforce the law, not to change it," he said in an interview. "I've opposed high taxes for at least 20 years, but in Washington nobody asked my views on the subject. I did my job and that's my mouth shut."

Since his resignation last October, Andrews has embarked on a crusade against the income tax.

The Constitution, Andrews said, guarantees two privileges to every American:

1. The right to engage in business for a profit.
2. Protection of the government in holding on to whatever he manages to make.

"We still have those provisions," he said. "But the government now dictates what we may keep. In some cases it can and does take as much as 91 percent of all a man earns."

Andrews, like other advocates of income tax repeal, calls attention to the theory of Karl Marx that there is only one way to kill capitalism—by taxes, taxes and more taxes.

"I'm no communist hunter," he said, "but when you read in the communist manifesto that high taxes are the road to destruction of the American system, what can you think? We're saying if we don't do something about it."

African Area Freed Today Of Alien Rule

MADRID, Spain, April 7 (AP)—Spain and Morocco signed an historic joint declaration today granting Spanish Morocco independence from its 44-year status as a protectorate.

The four-point declaration said the Spanish government recognized the sovereignty of Sultan Mohammed VI and the independence and unity of Morocco as proclaimed by him.

It also gave Morocco the right to conduct its own military and diplomatic affairs.

It ended an agreement signed in 1912 which made the northern Moroccan of Morocco a Spanish protectorate.

The two governments also signed an additional six-point protocol that will govern relations between Spain and Morocco until the declaration of independence is put into effect.

They provided for close cooperation and friendship between Spain and Morocco. Negotiations on this score are continuing.

The additional protocol vested legislative power of Morocco in the sultan with the provision that the Spanish representative in Rabat be kept informed of all bills and decrees affecting Spanish interests.

It said powers exercised by Spanish authorities in Morocco will be transferred to the Moroccan government and that Spain would aid in organizing a Moroccan army. The present status of the Spanish army in Morocco will remain in force during the transition, the protocol said.

Dr. Morginson's formal presentation in the evening will be a review of ACTH and adrenocortical steroids, their use in dermatology.

He is a diplomate of the American board of dermatology and a member of the Pacific Coast Dermatology society and Rocky Mountain dermatologic society.

Both dermatologists will attend a skin clinic at the Magic Valley Memorial hospital from 2 to 5 p.m. Tuesday. The patients will be referred by their family doctors for consultation. It is expected that many patients and their doctors will attend.

Dr. Butler will give a brief presentation in the evening concerning the setup in the mental health department.

The evening meeting will be held at the hotel.

Peron's Death Rumors Cited, Not Confirmed

PANAMA CITY, April 7 (AP)—Newsmen trying to check rumors that Argentine ex-president Juan D. Peron is dead were informed today that "this condition is a state secret."

Peron, who disappeared in 1955, ever, appeared to contradict the rumors, which were based largely on the fact that the ex-president had not been seen in public for a day or two.

Telephone calls to Peron's apartment were answered by his chauffeur, Isaac Giliberto, who said the question whether Peron is alive or dead "comes under the Panamanian government's ban on contradictory statements."

Peron is unable to say positively whether he is alive or dead, one newsmen said.

Stevenson Slates Oregon Campaign

PORTLAND, Ore., April 7 (AP)—James A. Finck, manager of Adlai Stevenson's campaign for Democratic presidential nomination, was here today laying out an intricate plan for the Oregon primary election.

Stevenson told a news conference in Chicago that he would be active in the Oregon election May 16, even though he failed to file for a ballot position before the deadline passed.

Finck said Stevenson would come to Graceland, between the primary and the Oregon election, to see how the campaign was going. He said Stevenson has given a go-ahead to his supporters for a write-in campaign for the Democratic nomination and to make a series of speeches after he arrives here April 11.

Neither man's name will be on the ballot but Oregon's 16 Democratic convention delegates would be pledged to the winner of a write-in contest.

Michigan Solons Reach Deadline

LANSING, Mich., April 7 (AP)—The Michigan state legislature passed today in a deadline race 13 bills. The legislature agreed to return to work May 10, postponing official adjournment until after a legislative session over appropriation bills can be ironed out.

The lawmakers were to have adjourned by midnight last night, and they recovered today for a last-ditch effort to reach agreement on disputed points.

Idaho Masons Attend Bids in Pioneer Town

PLACERVILLE, April 7 (AP)—Masons from all over southwestern Idaho hit the rough, muddy road to this little-known village today for the year's first lodge meeting.

Placerville, once a logging boom town, now has a year-round population of a dozen people. The Masonic lodge has 75 members.

The lodge's jurisdiction includes practically all of sprawling Boise county and parts of Blaine and Owyhee counties. But its members today live in such places as Africa, South America and The Philippines.

As Placerville dwindled and residents of the area scattered, there was talk of moving the seat of the lodge to Boise. Horsehoe Bend or some other more convenient spot. "But it hasn't been, and probably never will be as long as we oldtimers are around," said Marshall of the lodge, said today.

The lodge is "absolutely clear" of debt, Marshall said. "And there are some instruments in deposit boxes. The lodge is a whole lot more than you would think."

Metals Suspended Unlike many Masonic lodges, which suspend meetings for a couple of months in the summer, the Placer lodge suspends meetings during the winter, when Placerville is sealed off by deep snow and fierce cold.

Up until about 1940, Marshall said, there was a Masonic lodge in Silver City, a real ghost town in rugged Owyhee county. Two meetings are still held there each year, but the lodge has been abandoned.

Homeless, the country's largest town. "Probably about four or five of their members will be at our meeting," Marshall said.

Mrs. Holte taught school in Van Buren school for two years and was a music teacher in Lincoln school for one year. She was a member of the Methodist church and Beta Sigma Phi society.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Holte is survived by two sons, Dennis Raymond Holte and Randy Herbert Holte, both Caldwell; her mother, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Beem, Piller; one brother, Lasso Beem, Glendale, Calif.; three sisters, Mrs. Lloyd, Moscow, Idaho; Mrs. Margaret Behrens, Pocatello, Idaho; and Mrs. Katherine Harding, Shoshone.

Mother Watches Small Son Killed OKLAHOMA CITY, April 7 (AP)—An Oklahoma City mother watches helplessly yesterday as her automobile rolled backwards down a steep driveway and over her 3-year-old son, fatally injuring him.

The child, Wade Clark Thompson, died in a hospital three hours later of a fractured skull and brain injuries.

The boy had crawled into the car while his mother, Mrs. John A. Thompson, talked with his grandmother. The youngster then released the emergency brake on the parked car.

As the car moved down the driveway, the boy fell out. One of the car's wheels rolled over his head.

Narrow, Deep Gorge Cut Through Lava Beds by Swift Malad River

The tumbling water of the short, but mighty Malad river cascades down several "steep" falls to throw spray over the canyon walls surrounding the basin below the bridge on highway 25 west of Tula. In the late afternoon a rainbow may be seen over the basin. Shrouds from the canyon walls play across the many crevices and pockets lining the "steps" from the top. The river widens below the falls and soon swells into Snake river. Persons going to view the river and falls should exercise caution when approaching the rim of the canyon as many deep crevices exist near the edge. (Staff photo-engraving)

Malad, Believed to Be Country's Shortest River, Quite Impressive

There isn't an awful lot to it, that's for sure. But what it lacks in size, it makes up in other ways.

The Malad river in western Gooding county is not only a short river, it is one of the shortest rivers in the United States. It is only two miles long.

For by springs, the shortly named 15,000 second feet of water of the time and a whole lot more when the Little Wood and Big Wood rivers have more water than they can handle. Both of these other streams split into the Malad during peak flows and stretch the Malad out to 12 miles.

As for fishing qualities, anglers claim there are few rivers that can compare to the Malad. They also claim the high mineral content of the water gives the fish a flavor seldom found elsewhere.

The river is easy to find but could be missed. It empties into Snake river about midway between Hagerman and Bliss and rises in an "amphitheater" two miles to the north.

The Malad river bridge on highway 25 is located easily but the turn off to the amphitheater and "Devil's Box" could be missed.

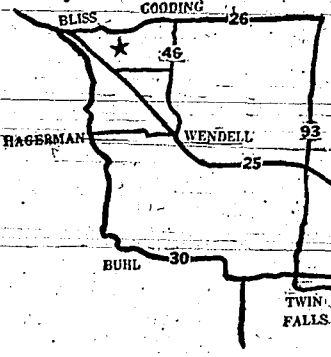

The Malad has been in existence long time. Basically, it is a spring river like the springs at Thousand Springs in Hagerman valley. When the Snake river was pulled from its original course east ago a large portion of the original stream was covered by the lava flow. After the lava had cooled the buried water sought openings through which it could escape to join the Snake river in its new course.

The springs which form the Malad river were two miles from the new river, however, and the young stream had a long way to go to find the strayed river. That all this took place a long time ago is evidenced by the steep gorge through which the river now flows.

The Malad canyon is estimated to be 250 feet deep at its highest point. It varies from 50 yards to a half mile in width. North of the original outcroppings of the springs, the waters of the Little and Big Wood rivers also have cut a canyon during their peak flows. At one point this canyon is less than a yard wide at the top.

Alexander McKenzie is credited with giving the river its name in 1819. Malad, in French, means "tick." Some of McKenzie's trappers became violently ill at the river one day in 1819 and from that day onward the stream was known as the Malad river.

So the river's crystal clear waters would not be blamed for the trappers' illness, McKenzie, in his journal, pointed out the men had taken too freely of roasted beaver that had been feeding upon some poisonous plants.

All you have to do to find Malad river with the tumbling waterfalls is to follow highway 25 west to Tula and go one-half mile farther. There is a small building just before the Malad bridge when you can park. If you prefer, you can drive 125 yards west at the bridge and turn right. Then you can cross a field to the Malad river gorge. (Staff engraving) effort. Back in 1894 Bert Bowler, present Gooding county auditor, and his brother, Howard Bowler, a circuit rider for the Baptist church, fished the river and bowl and caught more trout in two hours than they could handle. Many anglers still claim the river is the most reliable fishing water in the area.

In 1944 the state fish and game department tried an experiment in the river, planting it with catfish. For about two years the experiment reported good catches of the horned, smooth skinned fish, but after that the catfish disappeared—never to return.

The Idaho Power company has two power plants on the river. One, the Lower Malad plant, is located at the river's junction with the Snake and has a capacity of 14,000 kilowatts. The other power plant is located about midway up the short river and has a capacity of 8,000 kilowatts. A half mile further north the power company also has installed a small diversion dam.

With a rugged terrain, the river also has a rugged past. In 1913 the Beaver Power company brought suit against the Great Shoshone and Twin Falls Water and Power company over the right to use the water in the river. The argument became so heated the court finally ordered J. W. Wheeler, sheriff of Lincoln county, to set up a guard along the river to restore order.

The Idaho Power company eventually bought out both companies and the trouble was settled. The walls of the rugged canyon are filled with caves and crevices. In one of these a number of years ago were found the mortal remains of an American soldier who is supposed to have lost his life in a battle with "Bigfoot," a legendary half-breed near the Salmon Falls creek crossing of Snake river. According to the story, Bigfoot hid the body of the soldier in a crevice in the canyon in order to avoid detection.

Enforce Plan On Education

HONG KONG, April 7 (UPI)—The communist government has assigned a military man to put zip into the aging plan to teach China's 100 million illiterates to read and write.

The drive to wipe out illiteracy was announced last week and met by red leaders last fall. Lately red press has sharply criticized the progress of the campaign. Shao Chen Yi, a Communist Party official, announced that Marshal Chen Yi, one of the rising stars of the red military, will lead a national anti-illiteracy campaign.

Makes Boast

Chen, whose orders are to "do the way and the speed," has been widely publicized several years prominently but publicly he'll try to do the in main.

Shunted into relative obscurity as military mayor of Shanghai, he was promoted to marshal's rank and a deputy party membership under Chou En-lai last year.

There is nothing in his background to show he has had much to do with education, but chances are he'll keep the whip snapping over the teachers.

We, the Women

By RUTH MILLETT

Times have certainly changed. When I was a child, in most homes Papa's comfort and his preferences ruled the family.

If Papa liked white meat, the breast of the chicken was served to him. If he liked a Sunday afternoon nap, the kids played quietly while he got it.

If he thought Sally was too young to wear high heels or lipstick Sally didn't wear either. If Papa didn't like to have the phonograph going while he was trying to read, the turn-records produced the latest

Now most men fit themselves into the family circle instead of expecting it to fit around them. This was forcibly brought home recently by a story of the tragic death of a father who didn't like TV.

He left the living room 'to see peace and quiet away from the blare of the TV. But he sought it in his garage where he could listen to the car radio and was accidentally overcome by carbon monoxide.

There is no moral whatever to this unhappy story. It simply highlights the fact that today the man or the house has relinquished the place his father had as the member of the family. His wishes were law and whose comfort was not to be interfered with.

Today in most families either the majority rules or the kids do. Papa certainly doesn't. If he is outnumbered or outvoted he bows to his family's wishes.

If like me TV and he doesn't, h tries to get away from the noise.

Yes, times have certainly changed.

"The American Legion auxiliary selects (that through) sponsorship of Girls' state. It gives to the individual states and nation a group of leaders who will know government and will help apply the democratic principles on which America was founded," Mrs. Bucklin pointed out.

"The entire program is a non-partisan, non-political attempt to teach and inculcate in the youth of America a love of God and country," Mrs. Bucklin's committee is comprised of Mrs. Leonard Jacob and Mrs. Orin Puller.

Dog to Repay His Old Debt To His Owner

COLUMBUS, O., April 7 (U. P.)—Spats, a Labrador retriever, started today to repay a four-year-old debt. Back in June, 1929, Spats was a hungry, whimpering puppy, abandoned by his mother in a pasture near Pittsburgh. Today he's the proud pilot dog for his blind mistress, the same woman who had 20-20 vision when she found the stranded pup.

Today Mrs. Christine McKister, Pittsburgh, and Spats strolled through downtown Columbus as part of the "radiation" from the Dogs, Inc.

Two months after she found Spats her eyes began to fail because of a dislocated lens. Spats was still growing when the dim-out began total. Her last moments of sight came five days after her marriage to Joseph McKister.

"When I realized my sight would never return, I began to think of getting a guide dog," Mrs. McKister said. "I never felt as though I were blind until I began to lose my sight."

State's Radio Test Planned

BOISE, April 7—Radio operator examinations will be given at 8:30 a.m. April 21 in the senate chamber of the state capitol, reports J. E. Hallock, engineer in charge of radio district No. 13.

The radiotelegraph examinations for all classes including code and written test will begin at 8:30, followed by tests for radiotelephone first, second and third class operators.

At 11 a.m. the amateur code test will be given and all those participating must bring telephone receivers, complete with standard plugs, Hallock said.

All taking tests must furnish their own pencils, pens, ink and ruler. Because of the limited amount of time no deviation will be made from the schedule, he said.

As operator licenses are issued only to citizens of the United States, those applicants having citizenship certificates should bring data relative to number, date, court and place of issuance.
